Training course on Digital Asset Management

Linda Pikula et al

Basics of digital asset management – Digital media/photos, audio files, video clips, Flash animations, games and banner ads, PDF documents and Webpages – have become an increasingly significant part of our everyday experience. The management of digital media throughout its lifetime — regardless of final output medium — is the general domain of digital asset management (DAM)

Preservation and retention of media in digital environments is an increasing issue for archival repositories. This course focuses on text, graphics, video, sound media and mixed media. Course includes some general discussion of digital preservation. Topics include the evolution of sound and moving image media into a digital world, description and history of moving image formats, ethical and ‘rights’ issues, and digital asset management.

Course has been scheduled for IOC members. Joint 2009 IAMSLIC/EURASLIC conference attendees have been invited to register.

Contact person: Wouter.Rommens@iode.org

For more information, see the IODE website

Maximum registration: 12 non-IOC participants
Location: IOC offices, Oostende, Belgium
Registration will be online
Cost: approximately $575 USD/400 EUROS
